

Seasons for Healing

Adult program

Seasons for Healing is a grief and loss education program conducted in a small group peer based environment. It uses the seasons in symbolic and meaningful ways to support participants to acknowledge their, hurt, name their feelings and find constructive ways to respond to these.

A small group program supporting Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults dealing with issues of loss and grief.

What does it do?

Seasons for Healing aims to provide a culturally informed approach to support the social and emotional wellbeing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults who have experienced significant change and loss by:

- Exploring the impact of the change and loss on everyday life
- Learning new ways to respond to these changes

Who is it for?

Seasons for Healing was developed in partnership with Aboriginal Family Support Services, South Australia in 2012, with funding provided by the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Healing Foundation. The program supports Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults to adapt and respond well to the often complex and multi-dimensional loss and grief experiences in their lives.

We suggest that anyone affected by bereavement wait 6-12 months before participating in a Seasons for Healing program.

How does it work?

Seasons for Healing is a small group program that brings together cultural and therapeutic ways of healing with education. Adults in the group support and learn from each other in culturally safe ways through a range of activities designed to invite reflection, sharing and conversation. Participants learn that they are not alone in dealing with the effects of change, loss and grief, and have the chance to listen and speak, make decisions, solve problems and think about plans for the future.

Esteemed Aboriginal artist Bronwyn Bancroft has created a unique and moving series of artworks to illustrate the Seasons for Healing's messages. Participant journals and posters featuring Bronwyn's painting are used to support the groups as they move through the program.

Seasons for Healing

Adult program

How is it delivered?

Two trained "Companions" co-facilitate the small group Seasons for Healing program with 4-7 participants over 4 x 2.5 hour sessions.

Companions may be agency staff, endorsed volunteers or other suitable adults who undertake a two-day training workshop and subsequent accreditation. Where possible, an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander Companion should be one of the two co-facilitators supporting each group.

Outcomes

Seasons for Growth provides the support and space for children and young people to:

- Learn about how people have unique responses to change, loss and grief
- Explore their own story and how this relates to the story of the seasons
- Understand that it is normal to experience a range of grief reactions
- Explore new approaches to manage feelings and memories
- Participate in a supportive network of peers and adults
- Integrate their new learning into their relationships with family, friends and others.
- Make plans for their self-care in the future

Get in touch

The MacKillop Institute, Seasons for Healing Program

PO Box 1023, North Sydney NSW 2059 Australia

1300 379 569

seasons@mackillop.org.au

Evidence and evaluation

School of Social and Policy Studies, Flinders University
Evaluation Report for Aboriginal Family Support Services
SA concludes that:

The Seasons for Healing Program meets the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Healing Foundation National Performance Indicators, and in particular the National Outcomes of:

1. Strengthened social, spiritual, emotional and physical wellbeing
2. Strengthened connection to culture
3. Strengthened cultural identity and pride

(Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Healing Foundation 2011)

Aboriginal Family Support Services

Together with the Community

HealingFoundation
Strong Spirit • Strong Culture • Strong People

